Not illustrated. 1880 Excerpt: . . . the watchmans box, or hut, with its alarm bell constantly arousing him. 19. Seal up the ship-hoys eyes. --Allow the sailor-boy to sleep calmly. 22. Ruffian billows. --The waves. 25. Hurly. --Noise; clamour. 26. Partial sleep. --Sleep that does not treat all alike. 28. Most stillest. --An instance (of which many may be found in all old writers) of doubling the superlative of an adjective; thus in Holy Scripture we have Most Highest. The comparative was also frequently doubled. 30. Happy low. --Happy poor; happy loivly ones. 37. My liege. --See III. note 28. King. Then you perceive the body of our kingdom How foul it is; what rank diseases grow, And with what danger, near the heart of it. 40 War. It is but as a body yet distemperd; Which to its former strength may be restord With good advice and little medicine; My Lord Northumberland will soon be coold. King. O God! that one might read the book of fate, 45 And see the revolution of the times Make mountains level, and the continent, Weary of solid firmness, melt itself Into the sea! and, other times, to see The beachy girdle of the ocean 50 Too wide for Neptunes hips; how chances mock, And changes fill the cup of alteration With divers liquors! O, if this were seen, The happiest youth, viewing his progress through, What perils past, what crosses to ensue, 55 Would shut the book, and sit him down and die. Tis..
